

THE SERVICE WE OFFER

Ashwood Law is completely independent of any provider of financial products and any advice or recommendations given are always completely impartial of any product provider.

We are recognised as a leading IFA established for 25 years, with some 25 experienced advisers to guide you. We work across the Midlands in conjunction with many solicitors and other professionals. Here are some of the locations where we have connections.

We give advice across the entire market available to IFA's so that clients benefit not only from the wealth of experience and expertise of our advisers but also from extensive choice of the right product for the right reasons, from the right company.

A financial adviser that is 'tied', or 'multi-tied' to certain company products, would only be able to offer you a limited choice, where the advice and recommendations given would be restricted only to those limited products and services available.

It is important, that before we give you any professional advice, we understand your current financial position as well as your objectives, because everyone's circumstances and requirements are different.

We must therefore understand your needs, so first of all, we listen to what you require and only then, carry out a thorough review of your financial position, so that we can build a complete picture of your current situation.

The results of this research, combined with our understanding of your objectives, allow us to provide you with our recommendations for the future. We will then explain how those recommendations could potentially improve your position, so that you can understand how we aim to meet your financial objectives.

As Independent Financial Advisers, we have a responsibility to consider our clients best interests in the financial market place and our objective is to meet with you as often as requested, to make sure that your plans stay on track and meet your changing circumstances as well as changes in legislation.

We can arrange an initial meeting at your home without any cost or obligation on your part and provide you with a brief appraisal of how our service would work in your particular circumstances, which may make all the difference to the financial security of you and your family.

Ashwood Law's approach to independent financial planning is based on integrity, dedication, the extensive knowledge of the market place coupled with the fact that we care for our clients and wish to build long term relationships.
